

EAZEO is looking after my business

Bosch and VCS merger - strength in unity, strength in Networked Video Solutions

Now you no longer have to accept limits to what you can observe. As from July 5, 2004, Video Communication Systems AG is part of the Bosch Security Systems Group. The combination of the strengths of both companies offers many benefits along with a clear analog to digital migration strategy. The new integrated organization will also continue the reputations established by both companies for quality, innovation, reliability and customer focus.

For more information visit our website or contact your nearest Bosch representative.

www.boschsecurity.com

BOSCH
Invented for life